Robbers snatch Meals on Wheels van in KC

Two men with a gun yanked a driver from a Meals on Wheels van this afternoon in Kansas City and stole the vehicle filled with hot lunches.

The driver was stopped at a red light at Lexington and Brooklyn avenues about noon when the robbers approached, police said. One pulled an older-style revolver, opened the van's door and pointed the gun at the driver's face. The gunman pulled the driver from the white cargo van. Both robbers got in and fled north on Brooklyn.

The 1995 Chevrolet van is owned by the Don Bosco Center and was used to deliver meals to homebound senior citizens, police said.
